We must submit to evidence. France is really ill. The confirmation of the fact may have a good result, viz., to show the necessity of a thange of wyltem. The subject is a grave one; we cannot go into hipt from it properly in an article, but we may indicate how the population under the present circum? stances must necessarily degenerate, and how unigat improve and acquire fresh vigour, The laws of productions are general; they d not seed apply; without doubt, us much to the human cobstactes | race as to the different kinds of animula. For thirty years the writer of this article has had the opportunity of observing profound the rates modifications in certain mans of cattle. How has this been brought about? The breeders Governor. who have succeeded have always done so by the licions selection of fithers and mothers. For wonths, but example: families of the Bovine race giving a on, in the great quantity of milk, bave been produced, by ordinance taking one to choose exclusively reproducing males and females baving certain marks observed in the animals which gave the most ing to have milk; in the same way precourse races have entirely re- been produced, by having recourse to reprothe intro- dicers whose parents showed themselves very Ly similar processes, people have succeeded in put to the getting oven without borns, in changing the 5 against. | col ar of others, in creating races of sheep with DELBANCO'S silky fleroes, and in increasing or diminishing monified not only their physical aculties, but converse oftenned immediately; perseverance is necesgators having a defeat whose removal the banks desired. Let us now examine whether in respect to the human race we have not acted in a way to bring about the degeneration which the testi-Marriages appear to take place as if by chance, by mixing the families of the different proought there vincos. This is the result of the improvement it to receive of means of communication, and especially the of penalties any that a zontechnical law fully confirmed dethe law, and bionstrates that children who are the fruit of s ought to be the crossing of races form had reproducers, who been framing Instead of thinking a nomerous family an very addiect. honour, it is regarded as an honourable act of mig north by rather to give their children education and
